Automated Data Collection & Extraction

Tools & Resources

Optical Character Recognition

1. Video Primer: What is OCR?
2. Online OCR Tools - text and data from `.pdf` into `.csv`, `.txt`, etc.
    - Google Drive - Video Primer: OCR with Google Drive
    - Free online sites for small batches (can upgrade for larger numbers of files)
        - Free Online OCR 1
        - New OCR
        - pdf to excel
        - OnlineOCR
        - PDFTables will convert PDF to .csv, and has an API so you can do your conversions in bulk with R. You can do ~25 pages free; large numbers are reasonably priced.
    - Amazon TextExtract
    - Mathpix Snip digitizes handwritten or printed text, and copies outputs to the clipboard that can be pasted into LaTeX editors like Overleaf, Markdown editors like Typora, Microsoft Word, and more.
3. R tools for OCR: `pdfreader`, `tabulizer`
    - R package `pdftools`
    - R package `tabulapdf`

    - Convert PDF to text in R OCR pdftools
    - PDFtools in R
    - More advanced but more powerful from the Programming Historian: OCR with Google Vision API and Tesseract
4. Extracting Tables from images using R package `magick`.

- R package `magick` (this package actually includes several very powerful tools for image processing; this is just one of the things you can do with it)
- Detailed Blog Post / Tutorial

Extracting Data from Published Figures

1. Ankit Rohagni's Web Plot Digitizer
    - WPD Video Tutorial
    - WPD Tutorial Blog Post
2. Alternative 1: R package `magick`
3. Alternative 2: GetData extracts data automatically from scanned images (~$30).
4. Alternative 3: R package `digitize` will extract data from scatterplots within the R environment. This article will walk you through the process.
