Spring 2023 | Class No. 21946

Instructor: Dr. Emilio M. Bruna (he/him; <http://brunalab.org/emilio-m-bruna/>)

Contact Information: Phone: (352) 846-0634 | email: embruna@ufl.edu

Class sessions: Tuesday, Periods 3-5 (9:35 am - 12:35 pm) in 376 Grinter Hall

Drop-in Hours: Wednesday and Thursday 10:00-11:40 pm in the Tropical Ecology & Conservation Lab (directions at <http://brunalab.org/contact-find-us/>) or via Zoom (the link is on class canvas page). You can sign up for an appointment in advance here: <https://embruna.youcanbook.me/>); you don't have to do so, but it guarantees a specific time slot so you don't have to wait in line.

Course Objectives: This course is a practical introduction to methods, tools, and best practices for collecting, organizing, managing, and visualizing qualitative and quantitative data. It is designed for graduate students from all disciplines at any stage of their program. At the conclusion of the course students will be able to:

1. Describe the different types of research data;
2. Explain the need for and benefits of data management and sharing;
3. Describe and implement best practices for the collection, storage, management, archiving, and sharing of research data;
4. Find, download, and analyze publicly available data from repositories;
5. Carry out simple and reproducible data corrections and data set organization;
6. Describe public policies and agency requirements for data management and sharing;
7. Articulate the major legal and ethical considerations regarding data collection, use, and storage (e.g., privacy/human subjects, intellectual property, international law);
8. Create and Implement Data Management Plan in funder-specific formats;
9. Identify and properly use tools for more efficient and secure data collection in the field.

Course Format: This course is taught (mostly) as an active-learning workshop. Students are expected to complete reading or watch some short video lectures prior class. The in-class session will typically include an opportunity to ask questions about the pre-class materials and for me to demonstrate challenging concepts; occasionally there will be a class discussion about the reading. Most of the session, however, will be spent working - sometimes in groups, sometimes individually - on exercises that reinforce the session's concepts and techniques. During class I will be circulating between groups to assist with the assignment, work through mistakes, and discuss how the techniques can be applied to your research.

Course Materials:

1. Required Textbook: None. All readings will be provided online.
2. Course Web Page: Class materials & assignments are on the class website (<https://las6292.netlify.app/>). Assignments are submitted via Canvas (<https://elearning.ufl.edu>).

TOTAL	1500

Note that there is no Final Exam in this course (the Individual Project is due on the scheduled date of the final exam). Note also that each of the 15 in-class exercises are each worth 40 points. Most of the in-class assignments involve hands-on practice with data collection or manipulation. In some weeks, however, assignment will be the submission of questions for group discussion or brief reflection on the issues from the readings. Most in-class assignments are designed to be completed during the class session, but to ensure students master the concepts rather than rush through them they can be submitted anytime before 9 am the following Friday.

COURSE & UF POLICIES

Attendance: Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>. Though attendance is not required, most of the required assignments are completed in class. They are designed so that one could complete them independently, but by doing them in class you will benefit from working collaboratively with the other students.

Participation: Consistent informed, thoughtful, and considerate class participation is encouraged. If you have personal issues that prohibit you from joining freely in class discussion, e.g., shyness, language barriers, etc., that is no problem! Let me know as soon as possible and we will discuss alternative modes of participation. If you need to miss an upcoming class for whatever reason (e.g., conference, illness, family emergency), please let me know as soon as possible. We will make arrangements for you to complete any assignments and go over any material you will be missing. I would much rather you focus on your health or supporting friends and family in need than struggle to turn in assignments.

Absences and Make-Up Work: Requirements for class attendance and coursework are consistent with university policies found at: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/graduate/regulations/#text>.

Regrades: Requests for re-evaluation of any quizzes, exams, or assignments will only be considered if accompanied by a letter explaining why you think you deserve additional credit and the number of additional points you think you deserve. The deadline for submitting these requests is one week after the work has been returned.

Grade Points: For information on how UF assigns grade points, visit: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/grades-grading-policies/>

Course Evaluation: Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via www.ufl.bluera.com/ufl/. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at <https://gatorevals.ua.ufl.edu/public-results/>.

University Honesty Policy: UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.” The Honor Code (<https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

In-Class Recording: Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled.

The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is: an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third-party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code

Student Privacy There are federal laws protecting your privacy with regards to grades earned in courses and on individual assignments. For more information, please see the Notification to Students of FERPA Rights.

Software Use: All faculty, staff, and students of the university are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against university policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate.

Sexual Harrasment: UF provides an educational and working environment for its students, faculty, and staff that is free from sex discrimination and sexual harassment. For more about UF policies regarding harassment: <http://www.dso.ufl.edu/studentguide/studentconductcode.php#s4041>. _Sexual harassment will not be tolerated.
